Sending to a casting

For talent, parents and agents: what happens when you fill in a casting link.

GUIDE 07 · FOR TALENT

Sending to a casting

A casting company has sent you a link or shown you a QR code. It opens a short form on your phone: no account, nothing to install. This is what happens when you send it.

WHAT YOU SEND

- Your answers, photos and tapes go straight to the casting company named at the top of the form, into a folder of your own. Other people who apply never see them.
- No signal? What you typed and chose stays on your phone and is sent when you have signal again. Keep the page open, or open the link again.
- Photos and videos are made lighter as they arrive, so they are quick to watch. The light copy of a photo carries no location data.
- A video question may have a time limit, shown under the button as “Videos up to 1:30 long.” A longer video is refused before it uploads: trim it and add it again. If you record on the spot, check the length first.
- The form asks for your email: “Add your email: it is the most likely way the casting team will contact you once the casting is confirmed, if you are part of it.”

WHAT THE CASTING COMPANY SEES

- Your answers, your photos and tapes, and who filled in the form: you, a parent or guardian, an agent or the casting team.
- They may show your photos and tapes to the people choosing, such as the director or the brand, in a private gallery that carries each viewer’s name as a watermark.
- The casting and its files are deleted at the latest 60 days after the casting was created, or 74 days if the company extends it once.

PARENTS OF UNDER-18S

- Choose My child to fill in the form for your child. Anyone under 18 needs a parent or guardian’s name, email and OK on the form; for a child under 14, only the parent or guardian ticks the box.

AGENTS

- Choose I’m an agent, fill in your details once, and use Add another person to send several people with one link.
